

TERRA COTTA RAINSCREEN

Sonoma State University's Wine Spectator Learning Center

A Modern Renovation of a former University Commons Building

The elegant conversion of the original Campus Commons building creates a new home for Sonoma State University's Wine Spectator Learning Center. TLCD Architecture design allowed for a simple banding of Terra5 terracotta rainscreen to accent the strong concrete façade. Using a running bond layout, the grey terracotta panels are a perfect design feature. The Center houses a unique program whose vision is to propel Sonoma State to "the number one university in the world for wine business education and research". Situated in the heart of the Sonoma County wine country, the Wine Institute Program is supported by major partners in the global wine industry.

Panel Type: Terra5

Architect: TLCD Architecture

888-826-8453

CLADDING CORP

THE 1ST NAME IN RAINSCREEN

V110119